BIGGEST CARDS TO PLAY YET

Senator LaFollette Will Be The Speaker For Monday Night.

WARDE, ZUEBLIN AND OTHER NOTABLES HAVE BEEN HEARD.

The Chautauqua presented some of its best features yesterday. Chas. Zueblin, the publicist of Boston, spoke in the afternoon on civic improvement problems. He is everywhere recognized as one of the ablest advocates of this branch of reform work. His lecture was heard with the greatest interest.

Last night Miss Crum appeared in a novelty program of clay modelings, etc.

The program for to-day has Toten the wonder-working magician. He not only keeps you guessing, but he also keeps you fooled. His work is lightning-like, and he is so dexterous and skillful and rapid in his manipulations that the audience is constantly kept in feverish excitement wondering what will come next. The truth of the matter is that if Toten had lived in the days of witchcraft he would have been sent to the gilotine double-quick. Mr. Toten is most ably assisted by his daughter, Miss Flora Toten, herself a talented young lady possessing rare ability in the mysterious art.

Monday is political day and Senator LaFollette is the strong closing card.

As Governor of Wisconsin he set in action laws for the public welfare that have become in a large measure patterns for other States. It is claimed that he in a large measure inspired the great work which the University of Wisconsin is doing, the influence of which is being felt by the people. The summer of 1915 will note Mr. LaFollette's first appearance on Southern chautauquas, and the Alkahest is justly proud of the fact that it is under its auspices that Mr. LaFollette will lecture. "LaFollette Day" will be a big day, because Mr. LaFollette is a big man who delivers a big lecture.

King Victor Emmanuel has assumed supreme command of his army and navy forces, and left incognito for the Italian headquarters.

On Tuesday afternoon lightning struck the County Clerk's office in the Courthouse at Morgantown, and made a large hole in the wall.

Let's have the proof about what Harry McChesney said in Ballard county. Did he advocate the boycotting of newspapers that do not agree with him?

Those strawberries raised by Jim Robertson and mentioned in the last Kentuckian were a trifle too large. They were five inches in circumference instead of five inches in diameter, which makes a difference.

Louisville and Jefferson county were swept by a storm Tuesday afternoon which leveled more than 1,000 trees, slightly injured half a dozen persons and damaged property to the extent of about $50,000.

The government of the Netherlands has sent a note to Germany protesting against the sinking on May 7 of the Cunarder Lusitania by a German submarine. The contents of the note substantially the same as the American communication on the same subject.

The alleged torpedoing of the American steamship Nebraska, Wednesday off the coast of Ireland is featured by all the London papers, which describe the incident as "another challenge to America." The Nebraska was not disabled and proceeded to port.

Among more than 4,000 letters urging executive clemency for Leo. M. Frank received one day by Governor Slaton and the State Prison Commission were communications from United States Senator Sherman, Illinois; Gov. Ferguson, Texas; Circuit Judge G. B. Arnold, St. Louis, and Judge Ben B. Lindsey, Denver.

The Kentuckian may be slow to catch on, but the Dixie Highway seems to be merely a circuitous paper route that joy riders may or may not travel in touring the country in automobiles. Each county is to build a speeding course for the transient tourists and "clear the track" for them inside of twelve months under penalty of having them go some other way. In the meanwhile the U. S. mail for Dixie will go the old way, right through Hopkinsville.

The English have lost another battleship in the Dardanelles. The Triumph, 436 feet long with 700 men was sunk by a submarine Wednesday. Most of the crew were saved. With the sinking of the Triumph 5 allied battleships have been lost in the Dardanelles by Turkish gunfire, mines or torpedoes. Of these losses the British have sustained four—the Triumph, Ocean, Irresistible and Goliath. One French ship has been sunk—the Bouvet. In addition, several other allied battleships have at various times been struck by Turkish shells and forced to retire from the fighting in the waterway.

World's Oldest University.
Founded in the year 972 A. D., the Mohammedan university of El-Azhar ("the Luminous") is the oldest existing university in the world. It is the Oxford of the Moslem world, and is at present attended by upward of 10,000 students of all ages, and from every eastern country, from the Caucasus to Somaliland. Board and lodging is free. The teaching consists chiefly of Mohammedan dogma, which is laboriously committed to memory from sacred books.

TWELVE GOOD SILO REASONS

One Great Obstacle, the Cost, May Be Partly Overcome by Constructing Pit Affairs.

Shall I build a silo?
This question is being asked by the more enterprising farmers and ranchmen all over the West.

The cost of the silo is the greatest obstacle, but if this stands seriously in the way a pit may be dug and finished at a cost not exceeding fifty to one hundred dollars for material. Pit silos are very satisfactory and are certainly to be desired rather than to have no silo at all.

Twelve good reasons why the farmer should provide himself with a silo are given by T. B. Woodward of the dairy division, United States department of agriculture, in Farmers' Bulletin No. 556. Every one of them touches some spot of vital importance to the feeder.

1. More feed can be stored in a given space in the form of silage than in the form of fodder or hay.

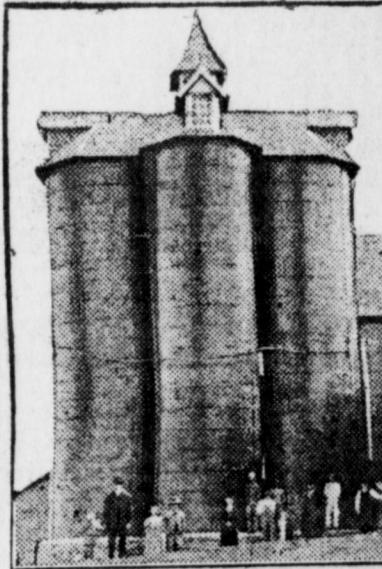

2. There is a smaller loss of food material when a crop is made into silage than when cured as fodder or hay.

3. Corn silage is a more efficient feed than corn fodder.

4. An acre of corn can be placed in the silo at less cost than the same area can be husked and shredded.

5. Crop can be put in the silo during weather that could not be utilized for making hay or curing fodder.

6. More stock can be kept on a given area of land when silage is the basis of the ration.

7. There is less waste in feeding silage than in feeding fodder. Good silage properly fed is all consumed.

8. Silage is very palatable.

9. Silage, like other succulent feeds, has a beneficial effect upon the digestive organs.

10. Silage is the cheapest and best form in which a succulent feed can be provided for winter use.

11. Silage can be used for supplementing pastures more economically than can soiling crops, because it requires less labor, and silage is more palatable.

12. Converting the corn crop into silage clears the land and leaves it ready for another crop.

Almost anything in the way of forage crops may be put into the silo and will keep until it is needed.

DAIRY NOTES

Abuse generally educates the cow to kick.

Peanuts make a splendid crop on the dairy or hog farm.

A good dairy cow is the most profitable piece of property on the farm.

Keep the cows clean and you will not have so much trouble with stringy milk.

The income of the dairy is the most constant and systematic income of the entire farm.

For dairy cows the temperature of the barn should not fall below 40 degrees or rise above 60 degrees.

The good milker is the cow that turns the most feed into the largest flow of good, rich, healthful milk.

The young calf's digestion is very easily upset. Be careful that it is rightly fed and kept in clean quarters.

Leave all other work to help a cow that appears to be in trouble, whether it is your cow or your neighbor's.

Carelessness is one of the most common causes of failure on the dairy farm. Look to your work and to the details every day.

Not An Experiment.

Paint Lick, Ky.—Mrs. Mary Freeman, of this place says: "Before I commenced to take Cardui, I suffered so much from womanly trouble, I was so weak that I was down on my back nearly all the time. Cardui has done me more good than any medicine I ever took in my life. I can't possibly praise it too highly." You need not to be afraid to take Cardui. It is no new experiment. For fifty years, it has been found to relieve headache, backache, and similar troubles. Composed of gentle-acting, herb, ingredient, Cardui builds up the strength, preventing much unnecessary pain. Try it for your troubles, to-day.—Advertisement.

Descendants of Youthful Unions.

A Chicago man recently offered one hundred dollars for the proofs that any great men have been produced by a family practicing early marriages throughout a century. In other words, he claims that three generations to a hundred years are all that there should be to result in vigorous descendants as a protest against recent medical opinions in favor of youthful marriages which, if constantly carried out from parents to children, would average four generations to a century.

Not the Right House.

It had been a hard day for the book agent. Sales were desperately slow, and as a last resort he decided to try a nearby house despite its shabby appearance. "Have you a Charles Dickens in your home?" he asked politely. "No," she snapped. "Or a Robert Louis Stevenson?" "No." "Or a Walter Scott?" "No, we ain't, an' what's more, we don't run a boarding house here, either. If you're looking for them fellows you might try the house across the street. I understand they keep boarders."

ROADS IN BETTER CONDITION

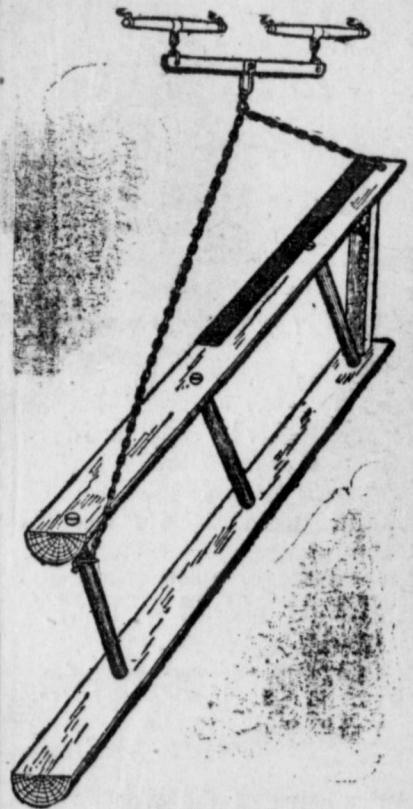

Split-Log Drag of Great Service in Keeping Thoroughfares in Shape —How It Is Built.

The use of the split-log drag is important in putting the roads in shape. There are over 2,000,000 miles of earth roads in the country, and the split-log drag is of great service in keeping them in economical repair. The drag is used in many states and in foreign countries. It is used with two, three, or four horses, and is easily constructed.

It is a mistake to construct a heavy drag. A dry red cedar log is the best material for a drag. Red elm and walnut when thoroughly dried are excellent, and box elder, soft maple, or even willow are preferable to oak, hickory or ash.

The log should be seven or eight feet long, and from ten to twelve inches in diameter, and carefully split down the middle. The heaviest and best slabs should be selected for the front. At a point on the front slab four inches from the end that is to be at the middle of the road locate the center of the hole to receive a cross stake, and 22 inches from the other end of the front slab locate the center for another cross stake. The hole for the middle stake will lie on a line connecting and halfway between the other two.

The back slab should then be placed in a position behind the other. From the end at the middle of the road measure 20 inches for the center of the cross stake, and six inches from the other end locate the center of the outside stake. Find the center of the middle hole as before. When these holes are brought opposite each other, one end of the back slab will lie 16 inches nearer the center of the roadway than the front one. The holes should be two inches in diameter. Care must be taken to hold the auger plumb in boring these holes in order that the stakes shall fit properly.

The two slabs should be held 36 inches apart by the stakes. The stakes should taper gradually toward the ends. There should be no shoulder at the point where the stakes enter the slab. The stakes should be fastened in place by wedges only. When the stakes have been placed in position and tightly wedged a brace two inches thick and four inches wide should be placed diagonally to them at the ditch end. The brace should be dropped on the front slab, so that its lower edge shall lie within an inch of the ground, while the other end should rest in the angle, between the slab and the end stake. A strip of iron about three and one-half feet long, three or four inches wide, and one-half of an inch thick may be used for the brace.

An ordinary trace chain is strong enough to draw the implement, provided the clevis is not fastened through a link. The chain should be wrapped around the rear stake, then passed over the front slab. Raising the chain at this end of the slab allows the earth to drift past the face of the drag. The other end of the chain should be passed through the hole in the end of the slab.

Make-Up of Dairy Cow. A wide, deep and full barrel or side is very important in a dairy cow. She must have plenty of room in which to manufacture milk from food and a large barrel indicates large digestive organs. A wide mouth and long, strong jaws also indicate that Bossy is, like Bill Nye, "fond of food." She ought also to have a large belly and moderate high flank.

Beautify Home Grounds. Set out fruit trees where they will add to the beauty of the grounds.

THE BATTLE OF THE TIRES

[Agricultural and Commercial Press Service] It is interesting to watch the forces of civilization battling for supremacy. The struggle now going on between the rubber and the iron tire promises to be the liveliest contest of the Twentieth Century.

The struggle is a silent one and there are no war correspondents to write vivid descriptions of the conflict, but the results are more far-reaching to present and future generations than the war of Europe.

The rubber tire has been maneuvering for point of attack for several years and has captured a few unimportant positions in traffic, but it has now pitched a decisive battle with its iron competitor by hurling a million "jitzneys" at the street railways and the battle is raging from ocean to ocean. Upon the result of the struggle depends the future of the rubber tire. If it is compelled to retreat, its doom is sealed, but if it wins the battle it will revolutionize the transportation methods of this nation.

If the rubber tire conquers the street traffic its next struggle is with the railroads of the country, and then the greatest battle between economic forces ever fought out on the face of this earth is on, for iron is the undisputed master in transportation, and is fortified behind billions of dollars, and millions of men.

Stephenson applied the steel tire to an iron rail in 1814, but it was 1869 before the golden spike was driven at Promontory Point, which bound the country together with bands of steel. It took the iron tire fifty-five years to creep from ocean to ocean, but the rubber tire while warm from the creative mind of the inventive genius sped across the continent like an arrow shot from the bow of Ulysses. The roadbed was already prepared and therein lies the power of the rubber tire over that of iron, for government builds and maintains the public highway.

But iron is a stubborn metal and it has mastered every wheel that turns; has fought battles with every element above and beneath the earth and has never tasted the wormwood of defeat, and when rubber hurls its full force against this monarch of the Mineral Kingdom, it may rebound to the factory stunned beyond recovery.

The rubber tire first made its appearance on the bicycle, but it proved a frivolous servant and was dismissed for incompetency. It has always been too much inclined to revel in luxury to be taken seriously as a utility machine and its reputation is not one to inspire confidence in heavy traffic performance.

But to those who care to waltz into dreamland, it is enchanting to note that there will be a marvelous difference between a rubber and an iron age. The rubber tire will scatter the cities throughout the valleys for with transportation at every man's door, why a city? It will traverse the continent with a net work of Macadam highways as beautiful as the boulevard built by Napoleon. It will paralyze the law making bodies of this nation for how could the legislatures run without the railroads to operate on?

FEDERAL INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

By Peter Radford.

The recent investigation of the United States Commission of Industrial Relations brought together the extremes of society and has given the public an opportunity to view the representatives of distinct classes, side by side, and to study their views in parallel columns.

Capital and labor have always been glaring at each other over gulfs of misunderstanding and if the Federal Industrial Commission attempts to bridge the chasm, it will render the public a distinct service.

The farmer has been sitting on the fence watching capital and labor fight for many years and incidentally furnishing the sinews of war and it is quite gratifying to find them talking with, instead of about, each other. When honest men smile and look into each other's souls, it always makes the world better and far more satisfactory to the farmer, who in the end, bears the burden of conflict, than resolutions, speeches or pamphlets containing charges and counter-charges.

The love for justice makes the whole world kin. Understanding is an arbiter far more powerful than the mandates of government, for there is no authority quite so commanding as an honest conscience; there is no decree quite so binding as that of the Supreme Court of Common Sense and no sheriff can keep the peace quite so perfect as Understanding.

We suppose the time will never come when capital and labor will not be occasionally blinded by the lightning flashes of avarice or frightened by the thunder peals of discontent. But Understanding is a Prince of Peace that ever holds out the olive branch to men who want to do right. A man's income is always a sacred thing for in it are the hope, ambition and opportunity of himself and family, but there is nothing in a human heart quite so divine as Justice and Understanding is its handmaiden.

Aluminum cooking utensils are a delight until they turn dark inside—then they are abomination. It is easy, however, to keep them bright. FIRE AT CERULEAN.

Witty & Son's Shop And Contents Destroyed By Flames.

On Wednesday night, May 12, the blacksmith and wagon shop of T. W. Witty & Son, of Cerulean, was destroyed by fire. This was one of the best equipped shops in this section, as they had all the modern machinery for making wagons, buggies and doing all kinds of repair work, and their loss is therefore very heavy. We understand their loss was about $3,000, which includes their books and all accounts, and they didn't have a dollar's insurance. The building belonged to T. O. Turner, and his loss is about $300 with no insurance.

Mr. Witty informed us a few days ago that he was satisfied the fire was of incendiary origin, and that they had a pretty good idea who the guilty parties were.—Cadiz Record.

Business Talk--Crop Condition

Too much rain or a drought, no plants or plants too large to set, every year we have our ups and downs on the farm—yet for the last 15 years we have never failed to raise a crop in Christian county. If we fail in one crop we have far above the average in other crops. We of course would love to see full crop of every kind, but let's be satisfied with what we have and quit grumbling, we are so much better off than over half of the States.

WAR! WAR! when we want some excuse for not doing business we cry out War and unsettled conditions. We have had unsettled conditions in the business world for the past 100 years—let's all put our shoulders to the wheel and keep on hustling, things will come around all right.

Come and see whether we live up to what we talk—we have increased our big stock, 4 Car Loads of Salt are beginning to come in. Another Car Load of Sugar has been shipped to us to arrive in a few days.

Fruit Jars have come in. Ice Cream Freezers in abundance. Big purchases of Flour.

MEAT—Thousands of pounds of all kinds of meat and lard on hand, 40 thousand people to feed in Christian county, 12 thousand in Hopkinsville and its suburbs, to eat 3 times a day. We have the stock and we want to help to feed them.

Let every Farmer in Christian county come to the Big Farm rally on June 3rd, meet each other, come with a smile and go back home with renewed grit and determination to overcome all obstacles and keep Christian county at the head of all the good solid substantial Booster Counties in the State.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS ABOUT PLOWING

(By O. M. OLSON.)

The depth at which land should be plowed depends much upon the season of the year, the kind of soil and the physical condition of the subsoil. Fall plowing, except for fall-grown grain, should invariably be deeper than spring plowing, as there is more time for it to become sufficiently settled and compacted. Whenever land is plowed quite deeply, and the climatic conditions do not thoroughly settle the furrows, it should be thoroughly worked before it is planted.

Heavy soils need to be plowed deeper than the lighter types of soils. Such soils usually have quite compact subsoils, and they are benefited by being brought to the surface. It is also a benefit to heavy soils to bury the vegetable matter at a good depth, as this will assist in the subsoil from becoming too compact.

Lighter soils are very much the opposite. Their subsoils are usually not too compact, and it is better to have the vegetable matter mixed with the surface soil. Deep plowing of such soils has a tendency to make them too loose, and care should be taken to thoroughly compact them before they are planted to crops.

Plowing land continuously at the same depth every time has a tendency to form a hard, compact layer in the subsoil at that depth. This is an undesirable condition, and can usually be avoided by varying the depth slightly from year to year. New land, when first brought under the plow, should not be plowed too deeply. While it may be desirable to ultimately have a furrow six or seven inches in depth, it should be brought about gradually, by plowing a half-inch or so deeper every year.

A method of draining fields which has proved satisfactory and inexpensive, is ridging the land while plowing.

The plow is started in the middle where two furrows are plowed against each other. By turning the horses to the right when making the turns at C and D, the dead furrows will be located at A and B and E and F. By continuing this system a series of years, the ditches are made deeper year by year. No ridge is formed on the sides of the ditch. By commencing to plow in this way, and by varying the back furrows one year a little to the right of C and D, and another year a little to the left, the dead furrows will be made broad rather than deep, making the fields gently undulate instead of being cut up by deep ditches and narrow high ridges.

BEST FARM BUILDINGS

Too Little Thought and Study Given to Details.

Not Generally Understood That Circular Structure Is Much Stronger Than Rectangular Form—Cost of Material Is Less.

(By W. J. FRAZER.)

The planning, construction, and arrangement of farm buildings do not usually receive the thought and study these subjects warrant. How many dairymen have compared a circular, 40-cow barn with the common rectangular building containing the same area? How many understand that the circular structure is much the stronger; that the rectangular form requires 22 per cent more wall and foundation to enclose the same space; and that the cost of material is from 34 to 58 per cent more for the rectangular building?

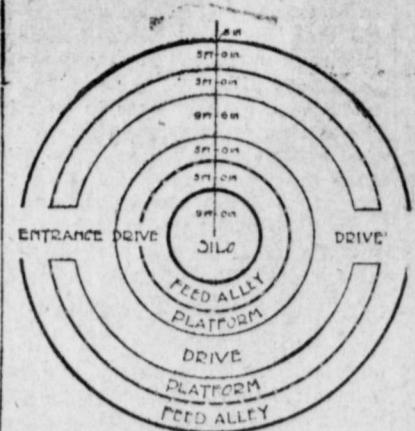

In a community in which everyone is engaged in the same occupation, one person is likely to copy from his neighbor without apparently giving a thought as to whether or not there is a better way.

In comparing a 60-foot round barn with a rectangular dairy barn, silo should be included.

The smaller surface on the outside wall of the round barn requires less paint and makes a proportional saving in keeping the round barn painted after years.

contains space in the center for a silo 18 feet in diameter.

Owing to the fact that a silo is a necessity for the most economical production of milk, a barn is not complete for a dairyman's purpose unless it includes a silo with capacity to store sufficient silage for the herd. In the case of the round barn, the silo is the most economically built inside, but in the rectangular form would cause a waste of space, and for that reason is best erected outside. Then fore, in comparing a round dairy barn with a rectangular dairy barn, silo should be included.

TAKE CARE OF THE MANURE

Shallow Concrete Pit Affords Practical Means of Taking Care of Soil Fertilizer.

The shallow concrete manure pit out of doors is a practical means of taking care of manure and is to be recommended.

Where a manure shed is used it should be so arranged that stock may have free access thereto. In this way the manure will be kept well packed down by the animals trampling over it, and the danger of loss due to burning and excessive fermentation very materially decreased.

Barnyard manure, however, is not a balanced fertilizer for ordinary farm crops; it is relatively high in nitrogen and potash and correspondingly low in phosphorus.

Experiments conducted by the Indiana station show that most clay soils of the state are deficient in that same element, phosphorus. By adding some phosphatic material to the manure as it is produced, we are able, not only to supply the lacking element, phosphorus, but also to fix the nitrogen, to some extent, and thus prevent its escape in the form of ammonia gas.

Maintenance of Sows.

In the maintenance of the brood-sows we have our best opportunity to make use of pasture, waste feeds, fallen fruits, etc. Not that these things are sufficient, but because roughage, range, bulk, succulence and variety are good for the sows.

American "Gas Bombs."

Americans who have condemned the use of poisonous gases by the Germans are likely to receive with mingled emotions the news that the United States government is conducting a series of experiments at Fort Sheridan, with a chemical bomb invented by Dr. L. R. Fowler; that the purpose of the bomb is to cause instantane death through the rapid diffusion of gaseous poisons, and that the government is thinking of adopting it if the tests demonstrate its success. It is further reported that the chemists of the war department have been working for a year to perfect such a bomb.

It will be recalled that at the last Hague conference the representatives of the United States refused to join in a prohibition of poisonous gases as weapons of war, declaring that as asphyxiation was no more inhuman than mutilation, and that gas bombs might really prove to be more merciful than shrapnel as agents of death.

Dr. Fowler, however, makes no such argument. He aims, he says to eliminate war "making war so deadly that men will recoil from it in horror." Yet all the inventors of new modes and implements of slaughter have professed the same laudable purpose.

In view of the unfavorable impression created in this country by the German use of the deadly gases, there may be public protests against our government sanctioning the practice. It is possible, however, that all the belligerents will soon have adopted the new weapon, in which case we should be obliged, in self-defense, to do likewise.

The general criticism leveled at Germany by enemies and neutrals, has not been based so much on the principle of using asphyxiating gas, as on the fact that the belligerents had agreed not to use it, and that Germany, in doing so, was breaking faith and taking an unfair advantage.—Owensboro Messenger.

Henderson Man Missing.

Henderson, Ky., May 23.—Relatives and friends of William H. Compton, prominent insurance man, fear that he has met with foul play. He left home two weeks ago and was last seen in Evansville. His wife is almost distracted over his absence. The matter was kept secret by the family, who hoped to locate him. He is said to have had a large sum of money when he left home. Officers at Evansville have found no trace of him.

Jared Hawkins' Will.

The will of the late Jared Hawkins was probated Thursday. He left all his property to his wife during her life, and directed that at her death the property be sold and divided equally between his two children and Ned Turner. J. T. Whitney and C. W. Meriwether are named as executors.

EXPERT ADVISER ON DRESS

Woman Has Achieved Success in Occupation. That is Something of a Novelty.

I heard lately of a plan adopted by one young woman that has worked out well with her, and might be of use to someone else, says a writer in the Pittsburgh Dispatch. She lives at home, but must help the family eke out, and this is how she does it:

Her one talent lay in her good taste in dress. She had an instinctive feeling for what was becoming, not only for herself but her friends, and was often called in to consult over a prospective new gown. So that is what she determined to do professionally. She let her friends know that for a certain sum she would give advice on costumes, helping to arrange a whole wardrobe, and from friends she soon branched out to regular clients.

She goes to the house of her employer and looks over everything the lady has. She gives definite instructions as to what each dress or suit or waist requires to bring it up to par. She advises as to the most becoming styles and colors, and lists what new garments are necessary. Of course she regulates the expenditure according to the purses of her various clients.

She has made a success. Many women do not know what to wear, what suits them best, what to put together. She tells them. She also saves them a good deal by her cleverness in adapting what looks hopeless. She can also tell where you should go for materials; she has addresses of tailors, dressmakers and sewing women, and knows they can do what they promise. She is thoroughly up in her chosen job, in fact. She also makes a point of attending carefully to the details of a costume, making sure that each item will harmonize. The work is extremely interesting, and it pays both her and her clients.

EXPLAINING THE WILD MAN

Curious Individual Learns All About Him, Including Reason for His Wildness.

"The won-der-ful cu-ri-os-i-tee which you see before you, lay-dees and gentle-men," announced the sideshow lecturer, in tones admirably adapted for talking down from a great altitude to the subnormal understandings of the masses, at the same time waving an indicatory hand toward the hyperrealistic looking personage in the steel barred cage, "is the Wild man of the Everglades, captured at the cost of seven lives and eleven thousand dollars in gold! Thu-reer times a day this savage monster leaps upon gur-reat hunks of r-r-r-raw and r-r-r-fresh flesh and devours them with terrible ferocity and bloodcurdling yell!"

"What caused the cuss to go wild and live on raw meat?" asked a sharp-nosed ruralist, interestedly.

"He lived on his brother-in-law for five years and it made him wild when his long suffering relative would no longer support him. He eats his meals raw because he is too lazy to cook them himself."—Kansas City Star.

Changing Diet of the Chinese.
Americans who have been influenced by the Orient to the extent of taking their tea clear, without milk or sugar, will be astonished to learn that the Occident is now bent on teaching the Chinese to use milk with their decoction of tea leaves—and condensed milk at that.

An enterprising condensed milk company is pushing the campaign and expects to be successful. This concern has already introduced condensed milk ice cream to the Chinese, and they like it so well that many of the restaurants keep it always on hand.

Practically no fresh milk is to be had in China, although the natives seem familiar enough with the virtues of both the fresh and the condensed article.

Perhaps after all of the Orientals have taken their tea clear because there was no milk to put in it and not because they thought the addition of milk ruined the beverage.

New Uses for Old Rope.

'Old rope, like old tin cans and other things generally considered as waste, has its special market and uses, and in every seaport the collecting and classifying of old rope is an important business. Rope that is covered with heavy graphite or tar is even more valuable today for making oakum than lightly tarred material, while hemp rope with the original heavy coating of tar worn off by weathering is often used for bag paper. A small percentage of untarred hemp rope, used in its prime for hoisting and other purposes, is being converted into cigarette paper in Europe. Scraps and waste from old tarred rope, and also old oakum removed from seams of ships, are now used for making boards.

Bamboo Blooms Slowly.

Certain species of bamboo flower only once in about fifty-five years, and strangely enough, all the trees in a locality flower about the same time. Those in Burma began flowering last year, and now they are all in blossom.

The last time this species flowered was in 1859-60. They will now die and those that spring from the seeds born of this flowering will take their places and will not flower until about 1970. They may flower sporadically at other times, but the seed does not mature, for the bamboo cannot fertilize itself.

Terrible Picture of Suffering

Clinton, Ky.—Mrs. M. C. McElroy in a letter from Clinton, writes: "For six years I was a sufferer from female troubles. I could not eat, and could not stand on my feet, without suffering great pain. Three of the best doctors in the state said I was in a critical condition, and going down hill. I lost hope. After using Cardui a week I began to improve. Now I feel better than in six years." Fifty years of success, in actual practice, is positive proof that Cardui can always be relied on, for relieving female weakness and disease. Why not test it for yourself? WELL TO ABSTAIN FROM FOOD

Giving Stomach an Occasional Rest is Regarded as an Excellent Idea.

Abstinence from food for a short period is a very excellent method of treatment for dyspepsia and kindred digestive disturbances. A raging sick headache disappears after giving the stomach a rest—by omitting to eat only one or two meals. It is common knowledge that a day or two of starving every two or three months enables one to do better work—more mental and physical work can be accomplished without fatigue. It is advisable, however, when on a hunger strike to drink water. Copious libations of hot water—several quarts during the waking hours—will contribute to the feeling of well-being. The water may be taken a tumbler or more every hour or two. Those persons who eat at irregular hours and partake of foods poorly cooked or of such composition as to cause indigestion will find the mild form of starving for 24 hours or longer a practice worthy of trial, for the resulting effects of the experiment will be gratifying. The rest (when one is on a hunger strike) given the digestive apparatus strengthens it and thus aids in conserving the health. A general feeling of rejuvenation invariably follows a few days' fasting.

Common Humanity.

Olympian Joves do not ride on clouds or sit on mountain tops in these days thundering commands to common mortals. Or if they do, busy folk pay little attention to them. Owls that simply sit and blink and look unutterably wise do not fool many people.

He who never unbends to speak the simple language of the home and the fields, or hold occasional honest converse with his fellows, may be a truly great and dignified personage. He may indeed deserve and gain a wide respect by sheer force of intellect, perhaps, but we love to feel the quickening power of that divine spark we call common humanity that links mind to mind and heart to heart; that makes us comrades in a common cause. That is the thing really worth while. Without it all is "cold storage," void of the spirit that stands for the sunlight for God's good earth and the brotherhood of man.—Breeder's Gazette.

Victoria's V. C. S.

In presenting the Victoria Cross to soldiers actually "in the field," King George may to some extent have been influenced by the original order, which provides that under conditions stipulated, the coveted decoration shall be conferred "on the spot where the act to be rewarded by the grant of such decoration has been performed." The first presentation of the Victoria Cross, however, took place in Hyde Park in June, 1857, when Queen Victoria with her own hands pinned it on the coats of sixty-two Crimean heroes. It is recorded that the queen wore a red and white feather at the side of her round hat, "scarlet body made nearly like a military tunic," and a dark blue skirt. She was on horseback, with Prince Albert on her left, who made a profound obeisance to each wearer of the V. C. C.

Pigeons That Swim.

The swimming of blue pigeons—the familiar domestic bird—is the remarkable sight reported to a Dutch natural history journal. Some months ago one of the pigeons was thrown into the water in a fight and rescued by human aid, and since then they have become more familiar with the water. Pieces of bread noticed in shallow pools evidently tempted them at first. Gaining courage, they soon learned to swim, and just before making his report the observer saw two of them sailing around like gulls a few yards from his house. When they tired of the bath they quietly flew out of the water.

CHLORINE

Is the Asphyxiating Gas Used
By the Germans.

The asphyxiating gas used by the Germans is chlorin gas affirms Sir James Dewar, president of the Royal Institution. His words, quoted in the New York World from the London Daily Chronicle are as follows:

"For some years Germany has been manufacturing chlorin in tremendous quantities. The Germans undoubtedly have hundreds of tons available. If several tons of liquid are allowed to escape into the atmosphere, where it immediately evaporates and forms a yellow gas, and if the wind is blowing in a favorable direction, it is the easiest thing for the Germans to inundate the country with poison for miles ahead of them."

The fact that gas is three times heavier than air makes escape from its disastrous effects almost impossible, for it drifts like a thick fog-cloud along the surface of the ground overwhelming all whom it overtakes."

The gas has proved effective seems certain, at least a partial success is evident from the French and British official communications telling of the fighting north of Ypres in Flanders on April 22. The French communiqué simply tells the fact: "The Germans, by employing large quantities of asphyxiating bombs, the effect of which was felt for a distance of two kilometers (1½ miles) behind our lines, forced us to retire in the direction of the Yser Canal."

Sir John French explains that during the bombardment preceding an attack upon the French troops on the British left the Germans made use of a number of appliances for the production of asphyxiating gas." He continues:

"The quantity produced indicates long and deliberate preparations for the employment of devices contrary to the terms of the Hague convention, to which the enemy subscribed."

"The false statement made by the Germans a week ago to the effect that we were using such gases is now explained. It was obviously an effort to diminish neutral criticism in advance."

A vivid account of the fighting on the 22d, written by a member of the Canadian contingent, appears in the London Times: Part of it gives the impression made upon an eye-witness by this new terror of war. He says:

"The strong northeast wind, which was blowing from the enemy's lines across the French trenches, became charged with a sickening, suffocating odor which was recognized as proceeding from some kind of poisonous gas. The smoke moved like a vivid green wall some four feet in height for several hundred yards, extending to within 200 yards of the extreme left of our lines. Gradually it rose higher and obscured the view from the level.

"Soon strange cries were heard, and through the green mist now growing thinner and patchy, there came a mass of dazed, reeling men, who fell as they passed through our ranks. The greater number were wounded, but they bore upon their faces the marks of agony.

"The retiring men were among the first soldiers of the world, whose sang-froid and courage have been proverbial throughout the war. All were reeling through us and around us like drunken men."

Everything, writes Will Irwin from Boulogne to the New York Tribune, "indicates long and thorough preparation for this attack."

"The work of sending out the vapor was done from the advanced German trenches. Men garbed in a dress resembling the harness of a driver and armed with retorts of generators about three feet high and connected with ordinary hose pipe turned the vapor loose toward the French lines. Some witnesses maintain that the Germans sprayed the earth before the trenches with a fluid which, being ignited, sent up the fumes. The German troops, who follow up this advantage with a direct attack, held inspirators in their mouths, thus preventing them from being overcome by the fumes.

"In addition to this, the Germans appear to have fired ordinary explosive shells loaded with some chemical which had a paralyzing effect on all the men in the region of the explosion. Some chemical in the composition of these shells produced violent watering of the eyes, so that the men overcome by them were practically blinded for some hours.

"The effect of the noxious trench gas seems to be slow in wearing away. The men come out of their violent nausea in a state of utter collapse. Some of rescued have already died from the after-effects. How many of the men left unconscious in the trenches when the French broke died from the fumes it is impossible to say, since those trenches were at once occupied by the Germans."

Paris dispatches tell of French soldiers from Ypres, who, in addition to gunshot wounds, were suffering from inflamed bronchial tubes and swollen eyes from the poisonous fumes. But physicians are said to believe that those who are not stifled to death by the fumes suffer no permanent harm.

RUNNING NEAR LAST SEASON

Prices Are Weaker As The Left

In.

The tobacco season is nearing the end with a rush that has caused prices to weaken. The loose floor sales up to Thursday night were 850,000 pounds and yesterday's sales, not reported, were 150,000 pounds. This makes a round million in five days, bringing the figures up to within 750,000 of last year's. This will be more than made up, as the season will not close for a few weeks yet. Owensboro has closed and other markets will do so this week, but Hopkinsville will not formally close at all. The average price dropped about 21 cents, owing in part to the inferior offerings and high order.

New Requirement.

Eastern railroads are planning to put into effect on June 3, a requirement that travelers declare the value of their baggage when they check it on ordinary railway tickets. Railroad officials assert that such action is made necessary by the Cummins act amending the interstate commerce laws under which all shippers of goods must declare the value of the shipments.

Why Not?

Boyd county will hold another local option election on June 26. We still discover no evidence, however, of an effort to hold such an election in Franklin county. This is a statewide mystery and a growing statewide scandal upon the eminent prohibitionists of Frankfort.—Owensboro Messenger.

Bayberry Shrub.

The plant from which the bayberry candle is made is the shrub Myrica cerifera, a plant which is common in New England, and especially along the coast of Maine. The bayberry shrub is not closely related to the Myrica acris, or West India bay, from the leaves of which bay rum is obtained by distillation.

REMARKABLE CASE of Mrs. HAM

Declares Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Saved Her Life and Sanity.

Shamrock, Mo.—"I feel it my duty to tell the public the condition of my health before using your medicine. I had falling, inflammation and congestion, female weakness, pains in both sides, backaches and bearing down pains, was short of memory, nervous, impatient, passed sleepless nights, and had neither strength nor energy. There was always a fear and dread in my mind, I had cold, nervous, weak spells, hot flashes over my body. I had a place in my right side that was so sore that I could hardly bear the weight of my clothes. I tried medicines and doctors, but they did me little good, and I never expected to get out again. I got Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Blood Purifier, and I certainly would have been in grave or in an asylum if your medicines had not saved me. But now I can work all day, sleep well at night, eat anything I want, have no hot flashes or weak, nervous spells. All pains, aches, fears and dreads are gone, my house, children and husband are no longer neglected, as I am almost entirely free of the bad symptoms I had before taking your remedies, and all is pleasure and happiness in my home."—Mrs. JOSEPH H. F. D. 1, Box 22, Shamrock, Missouri.

Sixty carcasses will be provided for the barbecue and it is expected that 3,000 or 4,000 people will be on hand. With favorable weather conditions, the meeting at the park at night is expected to be a mammoth affair.

The Editor.

Consider the editor. He weareth purple and fine linen. His abode is amongst the mansions of the rich and all the best things on earth are his to get.

Lo! All the people breaketh their necks to hand him money. A child is born unto the wife of a merchant in the bazaar. The physician getteth ten golden plunks. The editor writheth a stick and a half and telleth the multitude that the child tippeth the beam at nine pounds. Yea, he lieth even as a centurion. And the proud father giveth him a crome.

Behold, the young one growth up and graduate. And the editor putteth into his paper a swell notice. Yes, a peach of a notice. He telleth of the wisdom of the young woman, and of her exceeding comeliness. Like unto the roses of Sharon is she and her gown is played up to beat the band. And the dressmaker getteth two score and four iron men. And the editor getteth a note of thanks.

The daughter goeth on a journey. And the editor throweth himself on the story of the farewell party. It runneth a column, solid. And the fair one remembereth him from afar with a picture postal card that costeth six for a jitney.

Behold, she returneth and the youth of the city fall down and worship. She picketh one and lo, she picketh a lemon. But the editor calleth him one of our most promising young men and getteth away with it. And they send to him a bid to the wedding feast.

Flowery and long is the wedding notice which the editor printeth. The minister getteth ten bones. The groom borrows a copy of the paper to see the notice.

All flesh is grass and in time the wife is gathered into the soil. The minister getteth his. The editor printeth a death notice, two columns, and a card of thanks. And he forgetteth to read proof on the head, and the darned thing cometh out "Gone to Her Last Roasting Place."

And all that are akin to the deceased jumpeth on the editor with exceeding great jumps. And they pulleth out their ads and cancelleth their subscriptions and they swing the hammer unto the third and fourth generations.

Canst thou beat it?—New Haven Echo.

NEGRO POPULATION

OF STATE, 261,656

Washington, May 26.—Figures prepared by the census bureau dealing with the negro population of the United States for the year 1910 show that Kentucky had that year 261,656 negro residents, or 11.4 per cent of its total population. Of these 195,713 were black and 65,943 mulatto in color, 131,492 males and 130,164 females. Of the males 75,694 were twenty-one years of age or over, and of these 57,900 were illiterate. There was a total of 48,039 six to fourteen years of age and of these 33,761 attended school.

Jefferson county had a total negro population of 45,749 or 17.4 of its total population. Of these 22,407 were males and 23,807 females. Of the males 15,447 were twenty-one years of age or over and 3,339 illiterate. Of the negro population of Jefferson county 5,757 were from six to fourteen years of age and of these 4,898 attended school.

In Kentucky, in 1910, 11,709 farms were operated by negroes, with a total farm acreage of 439,657, of which 342,895 acres were improved, 15,405 unimproved, with 81,357 in woodland. The total value of this farm land was $15,437,763, including buildings, implements and machinery. Of this amount $12,227,431 was represented by land $2,789,887 by buildings and $420,535 by machinery.

In Jefferson county 4,372 acres were farmed by negroes, the total value of the land, buildings and machinery being $464,085.

Of the 11,709 negro farmers in Kentucky, 5,916 were owners, 5,753 tenants, and 40 managers. Of the acreage operated by negroes, while the report does not so state, the chances are that the proportion of it owned or tenanted by them was about in proportion to the number of farmers and tenants.

Fewer Free Copies.

The contention of Attorney General Garnett that only county and circuit courts are entitled to copies of the Kentucky Statutes at the State's expense, was sustained by the Court of Appeals today by State Auditor, H. M. Bosworth vs. County Attorney W. C. Marshall, of Frankfort, who sought a writ of mandamus to compel the Auditor to issue warrants to pay for copies secured by the county clerk and sheriff.

KITE USED TO CATCH

WIRELESS MESSAGES

Liverpool, May 26.—Some interesting particulars as to how the captain of the German raider Kronprinz Eitel Friedrich, which is now interned in the United States, intercepted wireless messages and avoided the attention of the British warships, is given by the captain of the British ship Inverco, one of the Kronprinz Eitel's victims.

The British captain said: "They rigged up an eight-foot kite, used the thinly drawn wire of Lord Thompson's sounding machine, made this fast to the kite and attached it to the wireless receiver. Every night they would send up the kite and catch every bit of the wireless news that was going. Their own wireless could only send 900 miles, but by the use of the kite arrangement they could hear up to 2,500 miles. The news that was picked up in this way was written out in German and put on a bulletin board."

"These kites had to be flown against the wind, and on sending them up, the course of the ship had to be altered so as to bring the wind ahead. They lost six kites during the time I was on board, due to the wind suddenly shifting, but they had material enough to make as many more as they wanted."

Since the reign of George II no abbreviations have been allowed in legal documents in England.
